

Blames Ike for Summit Scuttling Try Phoenicia Trailer, Car Crash Kills 2

FATAL COLLISION—A couple tentatively identified as Mr. and Mrs. Adolf Siberstein, of 8801 Shore Road, Brooklyn, were killed today when their automobile was in collision with a trailer truck owned by Consolidated Laundries Corp., of Union City, N. J., three miles south of Phoenicia near Mt. Tremper. Car (arrow) pinned under truck was partly submerged in Esopus Creek. Wrecking crews were unable to get the bodies out of the car until the truck had been hauled off. The truck driver, Jerry Carlton, 35, of Secaucus, N. J., was taken to Kingston Hospital suffering shock but no serious injuries. State police said the truck, distributing linen to hotel resorts in the area, was rounding a curve on Route 28 and slammed head-on into the car. (Wagenfroh photo).

Bodies Are Mutilated In Mishap Truck Driver Is In State of Shock

Two persons were killed this morning in a gruesome head-on collision between a tractor trailer and a passenger car on a sharp Route 28 curve three miles south of Phoenicia.

The victims were tentatively identified as Mr. and Mrs. Siberstein of 8801 Shore Road, Brooklyn.

Both bodies were described by Coroner Francis J. McCordle as "badly mutilated."

McCordle said he was "assuming" that the man is Siberstein from papers found on his person. There was no identification on the woman and no purse could be found.

Down Embankment

The car was smashed off the highway and down a steep 50-foot boulder-strewn embankment through bushes and trees into Esopus Creek.

The crumpled passenger vehicle laid partly in the waters of the creek with the tractor, owned by Consolidated Laundries Corp., Union City, N. J., on top of it.

The driver of the tractor trailer, loaded with linen for resort lodges and hotels, was Jerry Carlton, 35, of Secaucus, N. J., who was taken to Kingston Hospital in a state of shock.

Not Serious, Report

Hospital authorities reported, however, that he had "apparently" suffered no serious injuries.

The accident occurred about 7 a. m. in the hamlet of Mt. Tremper, but it was almost noon before the bodies could be removed from the wreckage.

It was reported to The Freeman that the car was proceeding in an easterly direction toward Kingston and the tractor trailer in a westerly direction toward Phoenicia.

One man who inspected the wreckage told The Freeman that it must have been "terrific impact," that the two vehicles "must have flown off the embankment."

Vote Urged On Schools In Letter

Matter for People, Says Civic Assn.

Any further action on school consolidation should again be put to a vote, the Kingston Civic Association holds, in a letter of this date, to Dr. James E. Allen Jr., state education commissioner.

The letter signed by Eugene DeDea, chairman of the association's committee on education, notes that the local education board has referred consolidation back to Dr. Allen, who rejected the first proposal, after it lost in a local referendum, and it asks for another referendum before final action on the local board's latest move.

Text of Letter

The letter to Dr. Allen says: In your letter of July 2nd, 1958 to Robert H. Herzog, in speaking of the pledge of the Board of Education to the people of the City of Kingston, you stated:

"On the basis of this clear cut pledge on the part of the Board that the will of the voters would be respected, I feel that it would be improper for me, as the State's chief school official, to ignore the action of the voters together with the Board's pledge. To do so would, in my opinion, jeopardize the good faith which may be expected of the Commissioner of Education, and indeed of all government officials."

I believe that it is the obligation on the part of the board which has publicly pledged itself to a certain course of action to be bound by its commitment unless there has been a radical change in the situation since the commitment was made. I have examined the facts relative to the situation in Kingston and do not discover any major change which would warrant a rejection of the pledge.

Called Moral Issue

The issue involved in this situation goes far beyond legal rights and powers. The issue is a moral one which neither the Board nor I can escape without undermining the faith of the people in the word of all government officials.

The Board says that the educational interest of the children and (Continued on Page 6, Col. 4)

Go Abroad Is Idea of Red Leader

Khrushchev Says It Would Be Safer

MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet Premier Khrushchev accused President Eisenhower today of trying to scuttle an East-West summit conference proposed for New York. He offered as an alternative to convene the talks in Moscow or any other place in Europe suitable to the four other powers.

By the four other powers he meant the United States, Britain, France and India.

Would Guarantee Safety

He said the Soviet government would guarantee the safety and security of the participants if they met in Moscow.

He was making this offer, he said, because American diplomats and the American press had expressed concern about the difficulty of guaranteeing security of the participants if the meeting were held in New York.

"We do not want to make it difficult for the U.S. government," Khrushchev said in a letter to Eisenhower broadcast by Moscow radio. "We can meet in any of the European capitals. We also would like the meeting to take place in Moscow."

"As regards India's participation, we hold that it is important for her to take part. As to the date of the conference, we named July 28. We are ready for another early date and we would like a confirmation from the U.S.A. concerning this date."

In an apparent attempt to split the Western Allies, the Soviet Premier accused British Prime Minister Macmillan of resorting to "maneuvering" but praised French Premier de Gaulle.

Accuses Ike

Khrushchev told President Eisenhower "You do not work for peace" and accused him of stalling off a summit conference.

The Soviet leader said: "The President's message of July 22 welcomed throughout the world and people hoped the summit conference would be held without delay, removing the threat of war in the Middle East and Near East."

Eisenhower, in his July 22 message, challenged Khrushchev to complain to the U.N. Security Council personally if he believes British-American military moves endangered world peace.

On July 25 Eisenhower proposed the Security Council make the arrangements for the summit meeting.

Khrushchev tonight said: "The Security Council has already been discussing the Middle Eastern crisis and as yet failed to do anything at all."

"The area in question is becoming more like a powder keg which can precipitate a world holocaust. Hence the urgency of a five-power conference with the attendance of the U.N. secretary general."

"If we genuinely want to reduce tension, we must agree that it is the five powers (Britain, United States, France, Soviet Union, India) that will have to settle the problem. It seems that an effort is made to bury the previous idea of the conference. We cannot accept this."

Held for Grand Jury

John Boyd Thompson, of 57 Basset Street, New Haven, who was arrested for alleged possession of a loaded revolver, waived examination in city court today, and was held to await grand jury action. Thompson was arrested by Officers Thomas McGraw and James Steinhaber after a report that a car had a loaded revolver in a car on Ann Street July 20. Attorney Charles J. Saccoman appeared for the defendant.

Thieves Get $1,716 From 2 Offices at 519 Broadway

Local police today were investigating the theft of $1,716 from two offices at 519 Broadway, the former Palen building over the weekend.

A safe was jimmied in the office of the Douglas Construction Co., which reported $1,651 in cash and a motion picture camera taken. Roe Movers in the same building reported the theft of $65 in Christmas Club money.

Entrance was gained from the west side of the building, but it was not determined whether a door was forced.

Officers James Burns and William Whalen conducted a preliminary investigation soon after report of the thefts Sunday morning. Detective Clarence Broph followed through and continued the probe today.

Raymond Warshaw, of 26 Johnston Avenue, also notified police Sunday of the theft of a propeller, valued at $35, from the motor of his boat while it was moored near the Dwyer property downtown.

Another report Sunday said $11 had been taken from the locker room at Dietz Stadium.

Dickinson Makes Announcement of Senate Intention

NEW YORK (AP)—State Commerce Commissioner Edward T. Dickinson today announced his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for U. S. senator.

In a statement prepared for a news conference Dickinson said he decided to seek the nomination after consultation with the Democratic leadership. He said his action was urged privately and in the press by friends in many parts of the state.

Honored by Faith Shown

"I am deeply honored," the 47-year-old official said, "by their faith in me."

Other declared candidates for the Democratic nomination are former Postmaster General James A. Farley, 70, and former Air Force Secretary Thomas K. Finletter, 64.

In all likelihood, Dickinson said, there will be other declared Democratic candidates.

There is no announced candidate so far for the Republican nomination for the seat of retiring Republican Sen. Irving M. Ives.

Strong for Harriman

No matter who is chosen at the Democratic state convention at Buffalo Aug. 25-26, Dickinson said, "I shall of course work with all my heart to assure a continuation in office of Gov. Harriman and the election of the entire state ticket."

Harriman is seeking reelection. Dickinson said he was joining the senatorial race because the people of New York State want vigorous representation in the United States Senate.

He said "weak, self-interested Republican policies" have led the country into "complicated crises."

Reach 82,000 Feet, Descent Fouled Up

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—Space explorers Malcolm Ross and M. Lee Lewis survived a 2,000-foot bounce when they came back to earth Sunday from a record-breaking balloon flight.

The 34½-hour trip was man's longest flight into the stratosphere. The balloonists reached 82,000 feet.

The fliers had their toughest decision after a release mechanism failed to detach the massive balloon from the gondola as they were landing.

The 17-story gas bag banged the round aluminum capsule onto a pasture in east central North Dakota, then carried Ross and Lewis aloft again when a firing device failed to release the gondola.

Ross, a Navy commander, suffered a slight cut about his left eye, but he and Lewis began figuring how to get on the ground and stay there.

"Parachuting out of the gondola was one of the alternatives we discussed," Ross said.

Try Descent Again

"But we're balloon men, not parachute men."

They tried the descent again, and this time were able to release the balloon. The gondola was dragged about six feet over the hilly pasture, then tipped over on its side.

Ross and Lewis climbed out of the oxygen-rich capsule and lit their first cigarettes in nearly a day and a half.

Working constantly on some 50 experiments, Ross and Lewis enjoyed a comfort never before accorded to high-altitude fliers. They never had to wear oxygen masks.

Gondola Pressurized

Their gondola was pressurized with the same air pressure they breathed before the balloon soared out of a deep open pit iron mine early Saturday. It was the first time an airship, propelled or free flying, was equipped with a "full atmosphere," the Navy said.

The Navy said, "During much of the flight, they moved about without their space helmets. They ate candy bars and sandwiches, drank water and slept only about an hour during the flight. They carried a small television (Continued on Page 6, Col. 4)

Rochester Town Board Proposes State Establish Campsite at Vernoy Falls

Supervisor A. Richard Terwilliger (R) of the town of Rochester, in behalf of the town board, has asked State Conservation Commissioner Sharon J. Mauchs to consider establishment of a state campsite in the Vernoy Falls area of the town of Rochester.

Pointing to a recent statement in a Legislature bulletin calling for greater outdoor facilities and development of state park areas, the town board of Rochester at a recent meeting authorized Supervisor Terwilliger to seek development of the area within the borders of the state lands known as Catskill Park, which lies near "Trails End" in the vicinity of Palen-town.

Has Natural Beauty

The area has retained much of its natural beauty, with abundant forest, a natural fresh water stream, and a picturesque falls at the base of which is a natural basin of water which could easily be developed for swimming purposes.

There is a logging road to the area which could be improved at nominal cost to give access to the area.

In a petition to Commissioner Mauchs, Supervisor Terwilliger pledged the co-operation and assistance of the Highway Department of the town of Rochester toward improving any portion of the road that legally is within the jurisdiction and control of his town.

Campsites Needed

Need for additional campsites in the state was called to the attention of the public in the legislative bulletin which stated that since World War 2 use of public campsites has increased rapidly. Last year 993,000 were accommodated at state campsites, while an additional 91,000 had to be turned away because of a lack of facilities.

This overcrowded condition of the state's public campsites, it is pointed out, suggests that further development of sites is desirable.

"With the rapid growth of population in Ulster County and surrounding areas during the past several years, a corresponding need for additional suitable recreational facilities has developed," Supervisor Terwilliger wrote to Commissioner Mauchs. "Statistics available to me at this time, indicate the present population of Ulster County is 108,000, a 17 per cent increase during the past seven years. I believe it correct to assume that with the rapid industrial expansion this area has experienced during the past few years, a corresponding increase in population growth is present in those areas immediately adjacent to Ulster County," Terwilliger continued.

Ready for Conference

Need for additional areas to accommodate those who seek (Continued on Page 6, Col. 7)

Four County Leaders Talk With Rockefeller at Noon

Nelson A. Rockefeller, one of the leading contenders for the Republican nomination for governor of the state, visited Kingston today when he was guest at a reception and luncheon at the Governor Clinton Hotel, attended by county chairmen and other officials of Ulster, Greene, Delaware and Sullivan counties.

Flying to Poughkeepsie from his summer home at Seal Harbor, Maine, he motored to Kingston, accompanied by Assemblyman Malcolm Wilson of Westchester County, and his son, Steven Rockefeller.

Kingston was the first stop in a week-long swing around the state which will bring the total number of counties visited to 25. Rockefeller said he would then have "only five to go" and he expected to visit those counties prior to the state convention in (Continued on Page 2, Col. 7) and advisability of their wear precluded purchase of the summer shirts. Advocates of the "new shade of blue," led by Officer William Slover, president of the patrolmen's association, recently received permission from the police board to wear the summer shirts. They are regular uniform summer shirts with sport collars and short sleeves. Several samples of the summer uniform shirts were reviewed by members of the local department and the patrolmen selected the shirt submitted by Rafalowsky. (Freeman photo).

Marine Fatally Shot by Friend in Beirut Mishap

BEIRUT (AP)—A U.S. Marine spokesman said today a private first class, fatally shot Sunday, was killed by the accidental discharge of a companion's .45 caliber automatic.

Lt. Col. Leslie Gilson, Marine spokesman, said four Marines were on an unauthorized visit to a cluster of houses half a mile forward of the Marine position at the time of the accident.

One of the Marines was climbing over a wall when his .45 apparently snagged and the bullet went through the holster into the head of a man standing below. The dead man's name was withheld.

The three surviving Marines are being held for investigation and have requested counsel before making a statement. Under the U.S. Uniform Code of Military Justice men under investigation are not required to make a statement without the advice of lawyers.

Gentelen, Noted Area Artist, Wins Barrington Award

Julius Gentelen of Catskill, well-known area painter, received honorable mention and a cash award for his water color, "Old Fisherman's Boats," displayed last week at the opening of the 14th annual Great Barrington Art Show at Berkshire Inn, Great Barrington, Mass.

Gentelen, a member and former councilman of St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran Church, West Camp, has his specially painted full-length picture of Christ hung over the altar at the historic West Camp church.

Artist Norman Rockwell made the cash presentation presented by Mr. and Mrs. Robert K. Wheeler. The Catskill artist, an Estonian refugee, but now a naturalized citizen, is employed in the Catskill office of Knaut Brothers Inc., area mushroom growers and packers.

Gentelen was one of the top 10 artists whose oil paintings won $100 awards in the sixth annual art competition sponsored by the Albany Institute of History and Art, and the John G.

AF Space Flight Still on, Pilot Is Killed in Jet

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP)—Plans for the first Air Force flight into outer space went ahead today despite the death in a jet crash of Capt. Iven Kincheloe Jr.—who had been chosen to make the initial attempt.

The Air Force disclosed the name of the pilot previously selected as Kincheloe's replacement. He is Capt. Robert M. White, a New Yorker who at 34 is a 16-year Air Force veteran. White is an engineering graduate of New York University and an eight-time winner of the Air Medal.

He becomes part of the three-man team assigned to the secrecy-shrouded X15 rocket plane that has been described by the secretary of the Air Force as "the first step toward a manned satellite."

Kincheloe, a rugged blond whose face someone once said belonged on a recruiting poster, had dreamed of being one of the first space pioneers to blast up into the mysterious void beyond the earth's atmosphere.

"It's definitely want to be part of orbital flying," the quiet-spoken Korean War jet ace once told a reporter.

Dreamed of Trip

Kincheloe, 30, who liked to drive an old Model A Ford around the base, already had flown to an American altitude record of 126,000 feet in the needle-nosed X2-fore-runner of the X15.

Then, last Saturday he was killed when he ejected himself from his crashing F104 jet fighter.

Cause of the crash has not been pinpointed. An investigation board said apparently Kincheloe's jet had an engine failure shortly after taking off from this base in the Mojave Desert.

Ejection Downward

Because of the F104's high tail assembly, the ejection is downward. Kincheloe flipped the jet on its back so he was catapulted upward—a difficult maneuver.

"But it was still too late for his chute to blossom fully," said an Air Force investigator. The plane crashed and exploded on the desert.

The Air Force also announced that White's replacement—or "back up" pilot—is Capt. Robert Rushworth, 33, Norridgewood, Maine.

Memorial services for Kincheloe, who is survived by his widow and infant son, will be held here Tuesday. Burial will be at Arlington National Cemetery.

Hits Rt. 28 Posts, Reloads Beef in Trunk, Takes Off

A man who smashed into guard rails on Route 28, West Hurley, stopped long enough to throw a fore quarter of beef back into the trunk from which it had spilled, and continued without explanation was reported by residents early today.

Noble J. Garrison and his son, residents of West Hurley, reported to the Ulster county sheriff's office that they helped the man put the beef back into the car.

The sheriff's office was notified at 5:20 a. m. by Mrs. Garrison that a car had smashed into the railing between Brattain's and Salvucci's, losing some of the posts and tearing loose cable.

Deputy Sheriff Charles Dullea was dispatched to the scene.

Garrison told him that the car, traveling east toward Kingston, crossed the road from the east, bound to the westbound lane, struck the railing, then swerved back into the eastbound lane before the vehicle came to a stop.

They helped him replace the beef, after which he "took off" without excuse or explanation. The car was described as a grey sedan. They got the license number.

the creek with only a slight pitch.

Both were pinned underneath the car, with the woman partly in the water.

A light rain was falling, the embankment slippery and wreckers had to proceed slowly.

The tractor trailer apparently left its westbound lane on the curve and entered the opposite lane, according to troopers.

To Hold Post Mortem

Coroner McCardle said a post mortem would be conducted this afternoon on the body of the man.

It is assumed that the man was driving, McCardle told The Freeman since his body was found on the driver's side of the car. The body of the woman was on the passenger's side.

The man appears to be in his middle 50's.

It was reported unofficially during the morning that a baby carriage had been found in the car. This could not be verified, however.

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Pickle packers presume the public prefers pickles on picnics. What's more, the National Pickle Packers Assn. convinced Gov. Ernest McFarland. He proclaimed a 10-day National Pickle Week in Arizona urging Arizonans to picnic with pickles and to pick up litter at picnics.

Dulles Assures Baghdad Nations U.S. Would Act to Protect Them

LONDON (AP) — John Foster Dulles assured the Baghdad pact nations today the United States would act, even at great risk, to safeguard their independence and integrity against any threats.

The American secretary of state, in the role of observer, was addressing the fifth session of the Baghdad pact council which opened in Lancaster House with one member missing—Iraq.

Refers to Landings

Dulles' statement was made during a survey of the Middle East scene, in the course of which he set forth the significance of the American military landings in Lebanon.

The significance of those landings, Dulles declared, went far beyond the immediate situation in Lebanon.

He said events in Lebanon had to be related with developments inside Iraq and a conspiracy inside Jordan against the life of King Hussein.

Dulles' remarks were relayed to reporters in a briefing after the morning session.

Wants to Guard Source

Dulles declared there was no doubt that the Lebanese civil war had been fomented from outside. The United States has not publicly revealed all the evidence, he added, because it wants to protect sources of information.

He said the pattern of conspiracy which shaped up after the Lebanese, Jordanian and Iraqi crisis posed several questions:

1. Whether the United States would be loyal to a friend in need;

2. Be deterred by fear of a general war;

3. Whether the United Nations would be capable of quick, effective action; and

4. Whether President Nasser of the United Arab Republic would be allowed to carry through his ambitions without check.

Relayed to Reporters

Dulles' remarks were relayed to reporters in a briefing after the morning session.

7 Drown, 13 Traffic Deaths Listed in State on Weekend

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — Hot weather sent thousands of fun-seekers scurrying to New York's waters over the weekend. Most found pleasure, some found tragedy.

Seven persons were drowned. Thirteen died in traffic accidents to push the state total to 21 for the period from 6 p. m. Friday to midnight Sunday.

The toll also included a 20-month-old child suffocated in a fire, a man who shot himself accidentally and a woman found dead of carbon monoxide poisoning in a car parked in her husband's garage.

The number of weekend drownings was the second highest of the summer season. Twelve were drowned two weeks ago, including five in a stalled motorboat swept over a falls.

Tiny Robert Schuette died Saturday when fire swept the four-room apartment of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Schuette, at Bedford Hills. His mother was dragged semi-conscious from the home by firemen. The father was at work.

Harry Moroz, 57, of Yonkers, died in a Port Jervis hospital Saturday, about four hours after he was struck by a bullet from a .22 caliber rifle. Police said the shooting, in a wooded area near Barryville, was accidental.

Mrs. Gladys Turner, 43, of Newburgh, was found dead Saturday night in the garage of her former husband, Howard Turner, at New Windsor.

A coroner termed her death accidental. State Police said she apparently had closed the door of the garage after driving to the Turner home and planned to sleep in the car. The ignition was on and battery was dead when she was found, troopers said.

The captain of a volunteer fire company was killed Sunday at Westhampton Beach when he was thrown from the rear of a skidding fire truck.

He was Frank S. Swerdzewski, 36-year-old father of two. The firemen were collecting contributions for the department's welfare fund.

Norman W. Moysse, 33, of Shirley, died in a hospital at Mastic Beach Saturday after being struck by a car Friday night. The driver was the Rev. Thomas D. Heffrick, 48, pastor of St. Dominic's Roman Catholic Church at Oyster Bay. He was not held.

Today's Business Mirror

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP) — The bulls are confident that the turn in business is here. That is why last week they bid up stock prices almost to the record high of a year ago.

In doing this they are putting their own interpretation on the Middle East crisis and on the effects of a possible visit of Khrushchev to these shores.

Corporate earnings statements for the first half of the year also look different to the bulls than to the bears. In fact the bulls are ignoring the numerous bears, whose betting on a further shake out in the market is shown by a record volume of short selling (making a sales contract now in belief the stock can be bought later at a lower price to fulfill the contract at a profit).

Mid East Plays Role

The bulls also think the inventory trend is turning—from drastic piling of stocks to inquiries and actual orders that herald a rebuilding of stocks in the near future—with the Middle East playing a large role.

The bulls hold that the Middle East crisis is to be a war of nerves instead of bullets. This would support many of the forces making for further inflation: increased spending for defense, larger federal deficits, a higher debt ceiling. In other words, the government will be pumping more money into the economy by deficit spending than it will be taking out by tax collections. Business usually reacts to this by a spurt of activity on its own.

Another Booster

Inflation has another built in booster. This is the automatic rise in some wage scales, and the prospects of pay hikes in other industries — prospects which increased world tension and inflation of the monetary system make all the stronger.

Corporate earnings reports can be interpreted differently, depending on whether you're a bull or a bear.

The bear sees that in general corporate earnings are well below those of this time last year. Prices of many stocks are many times their present earnings per share—a higher ratio than many market counselors think healthy, judging by past performances of this market.

Better Reports

The bull notes the sizable list of companies reporting their earnings in the last three months were much better than in the first three months of the year. He deduces that the recession hit bottom about the time of the spring equinox and that the mild rebound in late spring will gain bounce in the fall. The bull sizes on signs that consumers are spending a bit more now than in the uncertain days of late winter, that increased defense spending is beginning to show, that industrial output rose in June and the factory work week lengthened.

Looks Like End

To the cautious this adds up to an end of the recession—and not necessarily a reason for a renewed bull market in stocks.

But the bull scents renewed inflation born of world tension and federal deficits. He expects business to react enthusiastically.

And that could be why you see bulls pushing. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks to 183, just five points below its year ago level, just six points below the record high of July 12, 1957—and a spanking 32 points above its level at the start of this year.

Pope Says Motto, 'Prayer, Work' Is Valid as Ever

CASTEL GANDOLFO, Italy (AP)—Pope Pius XII told Roman Catholic cloistered nuns Saturday the ancient motto, "Ora et labor"—prayer and work—is as valid as ever.

The Pope's radio message to convents around the world was the second in a series of three—the first such messages ever delivered to the nuns, many of whom take vows that cut themselves off from the world.

Vatican sources said the pontiff's insistence on the need for work by the cloistered orders was an important indication for their future progress. Changing times have struck hard against cloistered orders. Some such orders in Italy, for instance, have sought to meet changing conditions by opening their convents to pilgrims.

The Pope spoke in French. Vatican Radio, hooked up with networks of Europe, North and South America, broadcast his words to about 100,000 nuns, members of cloistered orders in some 3,200 convents.

For many of the nuns the pontiff's messages have been the first they have heard on radio. The Pope told them that their austere lives were motivated by love for God, and he urged them not to be discouraged.

Jobless Benefits Show Rise During Weekend of 12th

WASHINGTON (AP)—Both regular and temporary unemployment insurance benefits showed a rise for the week ended July 12. The government reported Friday that regular payments increased by 36,500 to 2,625,400.

Temporary extra benefits in effect in some states went to 80,900 additional workers, making for a total of 335,100. These payments went to jobless workers in states that have adopted programs to extend duration of benefits for those exhausting their unemployment insurance rights.

Eight states — Michigan, New York, Pennsylvania, Indiana, New Jersey, Massachusetts, Illinois and Alabama — accounted for 85 per cent of the extra benefit payments.

An increase in insured unemployment is customary at this time of year when workers ineligible for vacation pay claim benefits during temporary summer plant shut downs. Those receiving vacation pay allowances are ineligible for jobless payments.

There was a 45,000 drop in new claims for jobless benefits during the weekend ended July 19. The total submitted was 351,200.

SPORTY DRIVING

The sports car enthusiast is a fairly recent entry on the American scene. Our society doesn't quite know what to make of this fellow whose small, powerful, low-slung car behaves so nimbly in traffic and roars ahead with such authority on the open road.

The idea of driving a car for sport, rather than as a diversion or simply a means of getting somewhere, has never taken much hold in the United States. The Sunday driver is a phenomenon as old as the motor car; the sports car fan is quite a different breed.

The fact that the sports car owners are different from most other drivers doesn't lessen their right to a place on the road. By the same token, it does not free them from the responsibilities that anyone shoulders when he gets behind the wheel. They, as much as anyone else, must abide by not only the letter but the spirit of the law.

Sports car drivers as a group are probably no more careless or scornful of the law than any others; they may be less so. Still, the snappy little cars seem to inspire their pilots to show what the cars will do. On a crowded highway, this temptation to be sporty rather than careful can lead to trouble in a hurry.

Senator McClellan sees the need for a national crime commission to combat organized mobsters. Certainly something seems to be needed to convince them that the government is not a second-rate power.

HOW TO WALK AWAY

Col. John Paul Stapp has become well known because he has used himself as a guinea pig in his study of what fast acceleration and sudden stops do to the human body. Colonel Stapp probably knows more about this—and about ways of preventing injury under such conditions—than any other man in the world.

This gives special weight to something he said recently on a subject of direct personal concern to almost everyone. In the course of a lecture on "Human Factors of Escape," Colonel Stapp remarked that proper auto design and the proper restraint of auto passengers would have saved most of the 40,000 Americans who died last year in automobile accidents.

The Air Force officer bases his conclusions on tests which have shown that, adequately protected, a man can walk away from crashes that would otherwise cause almost certain death. Other experimenters support this conclusion.

Detroit is not likely to make radical design changes incorporating all safety devices that have been proved effective. One reason for this is that the public probably would balk, though the changes might save lives. But Detroit could speed up its application of data assembled by Colonel Stapp and others. Safer auto design is obviously a need of growing importance.

A successful female real estate dealer says it is ideal work for a woman because women know what a home should have. They know, for instance, that one vital thing is a husband able to pay off the mortgage.

Rumor has it that Secretary of Labor Mitchell is being considered as a possible vice presidential nominee on a 1960 Nixon GOP ticket. We didn't give the rumors much credence—until we heard that Mitchell has a new speech writer.

ALL SET FOR INFLATION

Barring another shooting war, the greatest problem this country must deal with is further depreciation of the dollar.

The stage is all set for a massive new round of inflation. This year's federal deficit is expected to reach $10 billion. It may be much more.

Inflation can be compared to war in its destructive capabilities. It wipes out savings. If it goes far enough it can lead to internal disorder on a vast scale and even

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY
WHEN KHRUSHCHEV HITS TOWN

The first time the Eisenhower Administration took a strong step, sent troops to Lebanon, established an area base in Turkey, while our ally, Great Britain, went into Jordan, Nikita Khrushchev agreed to come to New York to join in the interminable pow-wow at the United Nations.

First he wanted to go to Geneva where it is cool and refreshing during the summer months and to bring Nehru along with him. He wanted President Eisenhower to be in Geneva last Tuesday; Eisenhower did not go to Geneva as instructed. So Khrushchev announced his willingness to come to New York along with Nehru and a bunch of Arabs. When and if they come to the United Nations, Dag Hammarskjöld unquestionably will put out a red carpet for Khrushchev and the Hungarians will march on a picket line.

That picket line will be some problem for the local police, but men may engage in lawful picketing, as long as they do not throw ink bottles the way they do in Moscow. In fact here they may not throw anything except words. It might be suggested to the Hungarians that they arrange a float, upon which they place their most publicized Hungarian refugees, Mamma Gabor and her three daughters, Zsa Zsa, Eva and Magda. They will then be sure of an enormous crowd, for who would not prefer to see the Gabor to having a look at Nikita Khrushchev? The Gabor might wear Hungarian gypsy costumes and sing to the music of a zembala.

As Khrushchev is to visit us as a member of a United Nations delegation, nobody but Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., is under any obligation to be civil about it. This being an important election year in New York State, it is understandable that neither Governor Harriman nor Mayor Wagner can afford to make a fuss over Nikita. It would be worth a million votes to the Republicans if the Democrats would entertain Nikita, and vice versa. Of course, a ticker tape parade would be too dangerous; someone might throw the ticker instead of the tape. However, we are an hospitable people and will do nothing to embarrass our own government, but Khrushchev ought to know that New York is the city where the ghosts of those whom he murdered in the Ukraine, Hungary and Poland, walk in the memory of living men and women.

This visit is an excellent reason why it would have been preferable to have the United Nations somewhere else. New York is too cosmopolitan a city for it. I have often wondered at the fine law-abiding qualities of the residents of New York under the provocation of having all kinds of murderers, assassins, enemies of the United States and similar evil characters standing up in the United Nations, denouncing this country, lying about the American people, betraying us and demanding tribute from us—and no more attention was paid to what they do and say than to last year's hockey game at Madison Square Garden.

New Yorkers have grown accustomed to windbags, having from earliest times been habituated to speechifying. After all, this is the city where Aaron Burr and Alexander Hamilton quarrelled until Burr shot Hamilton over on the Jersey side. This town knew Lucky Luciano and "Dutch" Schultz and similar characters and got used to them, the same as this town gets used to every novelty, including seeing the automobiles of social diplomats parked in front of fire hydrants whereas citizens are fined for doing the same.

So, one day, perhaps we shall have the spectacle of Khrushchev, Nehru and Nasser taking liquid refreshments in the Stork Club although for a meal, I would recommend the new restaurant, "The Forum of the Twelve Caesars," whose likenesses are upon its walls. There Nikita can gaze upon Caligula, while Nasser looks upon Nero and Nehru looks at nobody but himself as one who is about to fade from the scene so often does. Also, in such a place, Nikita can drink vodka made in Pennsylvania or California and eat caviare from Iran, but as he well knows, the caviare is neither Russian nor Persian but the eggs of a fish without nationality. Or they can go to the Pavillon or the Colony where they will see refugees from their outrages living in freedom and high style.

So, we say, All Hail, Nikita!

Rude Child's Apology Must Come From Own Experience

Under the front porch Doug suddenly remembered the ginger-snaps his mother kept for him on a shelf in the kitchen. He told his friend to hold up work on the hole they were digging.

Scrambling from the porch, Doug ran into the house. In the kitchen his Aunt Lil was washing lettuce for the dinner she'd come to share. She said, "What do you want? Oh — those cookies. Leave them alone. You know your mother doesn't want you eating between meals."

"She does so," Doug said. "Where is she?"

"She's gone to the store, his Aunt Lil said. And reaching over Doug's head to the shelf he was groping for, she seized the cookie box and placed it on a higher shelf. Then, giving him a little shove, she said, "Go on now, be a good boy and get out of here."

Rage exploded in Doug. He ran to the kitchen door and turned suddenly to yell at her, "You're an elephant! You're a great big fat rotten old elephant!"

Now Aunt Lil is overweight, and as a fat little girl she had been cruelly called the name "elephant" by her older brothers. Doug's revival of it so hurt her that she decided she couldn't stay for dinner in a house which contained him. By the time her sister got home she was so indignant it took 15 minutes to soothe her into changing her mind.

When this had been done, Doug's mother called him upstairs to her room. She did not say, "You must tell Aunt Lil you are sorry for being so rude to her." Instead of demanding that he express remorse for his offense, she set herself to helping him feel it.

She said, "Do you remember the day that boy called you a 'dumb little runt' when you asked to play ball with him and the other kids? I do. You were so ashamed that he thought were a runt that you cried when you told me about it. Well, Aunt Lil is so ashamed that you think she's a fat elephant that she's been crying. I've tried to comfort her but of course I'm not the person who can really do it."

to revolution. It can produce dictatorship and the death of all the freedoms. It can bring on economic collapse—which is what our communist enemies are hoping for.

Labor and business are asked to show restraint in the important matters of wages and prices. This is certainly needed. But the foremost need of all can only be supplied by government. Unbridled government spending, accompanied as it must be by huge deficits, is the most powerful of all inflationary forces. It bears the principal responsibility for the fact that the dollar's value has been cut by half since 1940. A government which attempts to be everything to all its people, and do everything for all its people, is a government that can ruin all its people.

The Summit

Washington News

By PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON (NEA)—The basic intelligence estimate on which the Eisenhower administration is planning its moves in the Middle East is that Soviet Russia won't do anything that will start a general war.

It is admitted that sending American Marines into Lebanon and British paratroopers into Jordan has stepped up the war of nerves between East and West.

Russian Premier Khrushchev's boasts of Soviet prowess in atomic weapons and intercontinental missiles are hostile gestures. Red Army maneuvers on the Turkish and Iranian borders in southern Russia may make it appear that a general war is now inevitable—right around the corner.

But American strategy is based on the assumption that no war is going to come from this saber rattling.

THIS IS A calculated risk—maybe a dangerous gamble. It overlooks entirely the possibility that Russia may follow the policies taken during the Korean War.

No Russian troops were directly involved in that fighting. No Russian pilots or military staff advisers to ground forces were ever captured by UN armies in Korea.

Russia limited itself to the training and supplying of North Korean and Chinese Communist forces.

Similarly, in the Middle East, Russia has reportedly given Egypt 150 MIG jet fighters, 50 bombers, 50 transport planes, 10 helicopters, 5 destroyers, 6 submarines. Syria has been supplied with 50 jet fighters and 10 transport planes.

Where Russian military equipment is found, there are bound to be Soviet technicians and instructors. And the Communist track of sending "volunteers" to any country is not to be overlooked.

RUSSIA is perfectly willing to let others do her fighting for her on foreign soil. It is only when the Russian homeland is invaded that the Red armies may be asked to fight.

Technically, that keeps Russia out of a general war. Practically, it puts the Russians in it right up to the hilt, just as sure as U. S. Marines are in Lebanon and British Tommies in Jordan.

American planners advance another argument of dubious validity to back up the contention that Russia will not create any general war over the Middle East.

This is that an independent Lebanon and Jordan do not constitute any threat to the Soviet Union. They have no oil. So there is said to be no logical reason why Russia should go to war for them.

Jordan hasn't an asset in the world, it is explained. The Kingdom of Jordan can be kept going only by huge subsidies. The United States alone has poured out 55 billion dollars to keep Jordan going this year. Before that, the British did it.

The question this raises is, "Well, if Jordan is that worthless, why do the U. S. and the U. K. want it?"

THE HONEST answer must be that the Americans and British want it for the same reasons that Nasser wants it and the same reasons Khrushchev would like to see him get it.

It's a toe-hold. It's a base for future operations and expansion. As long as governments friendly to the West hold these nations, they stay out of the hands of the Arabian Nationalist and Russian Communist blocs.

If the East can get them by default, infiltration, political upset, conspiracy, open revolt or assassination—it will take them. It will take them any way it can get them.

If, later, they have to do a little fighting for them, it would appear to be folly to overlook or discount that possibility.

So They Say..

Anything an American hand can do, a Russian hand can do. The important thing is that neither hand throw a bomb.

I wouldn't be in it (baseball) 48 years if it wasn't all right.

—New York Yankees manager Casey Stengel, testifying before a congressional committee investigating the game.

The difficulty they (America's foreign policy leaders) have is that they think the world in which they grew up is the normal world. Their tendency is when a crisis arises to try to smooth it over and then to expect that the normal forces would reassert themselves.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

However bitter the taste, we may as well gulp down the truth that Communism has won the political campaign against pure, constitutional patriotism which was the ideal of this nation until not long before the advent of Roosevelt II and his wife. In these years we have seen the steady, impudent rise of disloyalty in the bureaucracy of Washington and a hundred scattered, inflamed spots such as Fort Monmouth, the higher educational centers of New York and New England and overseas outposts of our timid imperial design. Congress has made awkward laws to harass a leering horde whose features were plain to them in their daily traffic at the Capital. But the Supreme Court has nullified these laws in a positive expression of political policy since Eisenhower took power. This aggressive attitude is a mere substitute for wilfully negligent and inefficient prosecution by the Department of Justice under the Democrats. The result is about the same. Nowadays the department can solemnly say it has done its best and was frustrated by the court.

No loyalist, however ardent his contempt for Truman, would weaken his argument by accusing him of joining any apparatus of the Soviet party. But actually that puts Truman in even worse position. He leaves himself without excuse for his uncouth flippancy in the Alger Hiss matter.

His suppression of information on Communist treachery which Congress tried to subpoena and his repeated promotions of Harry Dexter White, a historic rascal of this tragic dissolution, after the FBI had notified him of White's guilt. The incidents rush past and people forget. But Herbert Brownell nailed Truman with this episode and Truman himself acknowledged an unspokeable person against him in his reiterated complaint that Vice President Nixon called him a traitor. For some reason, Nixon has denied that he said or intended to mean quite that. So

'Summit Talks' in the Past Often a Prelude to War

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, July 28 — What are the chances of a big war? "Summit conferences in the past have been primarily held to satisfy a wishful public opinion, but usually national positions have so hardened on vital issues that by the time such conferences are held it's too late to avert war."

Based on history's record, this correspondent believes that the chances of World War III breaking out suddenly are about fifty-fifty.

Almost every "summit" conference held in this century has been an ominous precursor of war. While the "summit" conference was being held at Geneva in 1955, Soviet Russia was secretly laying the foundation for the present war threat in the Middle East by making a secret arms deal with Nasser. Just twelve months after that "summit" conference he grabbed Suez, and the British and French landed troops to try to restore the canal to its owners.

Pre-War Opinion

It is amazing how widely the impression prevails before a war that there will be no war. This writer remembers how convinced he was from reading the press of 1913 and 1914 that there would not be any world war. He recalls, too, how many competent observers returning from Europe in the summer of 1939 were saying there wouldn't be any World War II.

Reviewing the most significant of the "summit" conferences of history, it will be recalled that kings and emperors visited each other back and forth prior to 1914, and there was plenty talk of disarmament and of prescribing "neutrality" for the buffer states like Belgium. When, however, the Archduke of Austria was assassinated in Serbia in June, 1914, it was the spark that set off World War I. Two small countries had dragged the big countries into it, but behind it all was the fundamental cleavage of the larger powers.

Appeasing Hitler

Again in the 1930's there were plenty of top-level conferences with both Hitler and Mussolini. The cry of "nationalism" was heard often as, for example, when Hitler demanded that Germans in Czechoslovakia be reunited with their fatherland. Concession after concession was made to Hitler.

This writer was among the many who were misled by the "summit" conference of September, 1938, when Chamberlain and Hitler met at Munich and the British Prime Minister predicted "peace in our time." Within a year afterward Hitler had started World War II.

One month before that war broke out, another "summit" conference—in August, 1939—was held in Berlin, when Molotov and Hitler signed a ten-year non-aggression treaty. This meant that Hitler had a free hand to attack the West because he was sure of Stalin's neutrality on the eastern front.

Other Ill-Fated Talks

Even during World War II the "summit" conferences were ill-fated and, in a sense, laid the foundation for another war later on. President Franklin D. Roosevelt, Premier Stalin and Prime Minister Churchill got together at Yalta early in 1945 and arranged for Russian entry into the war against Japan. The fate of Poland as an independent nation was sealed at that meeting because of concessions made.

Worst of all in some respects was the "summit" conference that sowed the seeds of the Korean War. At Cairo in November, 1943, President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Churchill and Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek agreed that Korea should be "free and independent." At the "summit" conference at Potsdam in 1945, President Truman, Prime Minister Attlee of Great Britain and Premier Stalin agreed to divide Korea and give the Soviets military control of the northern section. After setting up a "puppet" government, Soviet troops withdrew at the end of 1948. American troops pulled out of South Korea a few months later.

Then, early in 1950, the United States announced casually that it wouldn't defend Korea and intimated that this was a UN responsibility. The Soviet Union never believed the UN would intervene or that the United States would fight, and went ahead, therefore, to station the invasion of South Korea by North Korea. Moscow boasted later it had supplied arms for the project.

Today there are hopes in Moscow that public opinion in France and Britain will succumb to "neutralist" doctrine. It does look as if the British Labor Party, which is reported from some quarters in Britain as certain to win the next election, wants to go "neutralist."

It is the friction in the Middle East today—with the Soviet Union openly furnishing arms and money to the Egypt-Syrian Republic—which is laying the foundation for World War III. The United Nations itself is as powerless to prevent war now as was the League of Nations in the 1930's. For many decision rests, after all, with the major powers and the leaders of the Soviet Union are convinced that, since France and Britain are weak and pacifistic, the United States will not dare to fight.

Another Miscalculation

The world may be witnessing another one of those gross miscalculations which "summit" conferences in the past have tended to encourage. For such meetings usually are built on fear by one side or the other and on the impetus of pacifism, which is supposed to be politically popular. The war to expect is not a nuclear war, but what has been called a "conventional war." The buildup for it bears a startling resemblance to what happened before World War I, before World War II and before the Korean War. The last conflict, incidentally, was a non-nuclear war even though both sides had atomic weapons.

There is a warning. Premature withdrawal of the American and British forces as a result of a "summit" conference in New York might be fatal—it could be misconstrued by Moscow as a sign of weakness. It might unwittingly encourage acts by members of the Soviet bloc that would bring on the big war. (Reproduction rights reserved) identity, the enemies of our ideal and of this culture and state now pass freely among us as Republicans and Democrats. George Sokolsky, at the mention of an audacious New York Red now high in the Eisenhower machine, remarked with a sorry laugh, "Oh yes; they are all Republicans now."

This all happened in France and we looked on France with lofty pity. They put Petain on trial and degraded him in his old age for patriotic conduct. But they welcomed Thorez back from his refuge in Moscow after the war. And in our country, Lindbergh was dishonored and Sidney Hillman, who had paid homage and tribute to Moscow, was, by Roosevelt's offhand decree, allowed to choose Truman to be President for almost eight years. Folly of Volunteering

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—Mrs. Albert Sandy, 69, volunteered to be the subject at a Red Cross artificial respiration class. A few minutes later she was in a hospital receiving treatment for a cracked rib.

State's Dog Census Reaches New High

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — New York's dog population is at the highest level ever, the Agriculture Department reports, and it wants communities to keep them under control.

The number of dogs jumped nearly 17,000 in the last year, to a total of 834,444, in the counties outside New York City, the department reported Sunday.

There are thousands more in New York City, which keeps its own records separately.

Complaints increase

Agriculture Commissioner Daniel J. Carey said he was receiving increasing complaints about dogs molesting persons. A number of women wrote they were afraid to go shopping because of uncontrolled dogs, he said.

As the dog population grows, Carey continued in a statement, "it certainly becomes more and more of a community responsibility to take action to control dogs, especially those which annoy people on our streets."

Nassau County on Long Island topped the 1958 census with 89,225 dogs. Erie County followed with 69,077.

Other counties with big dog populations include Broome, 23,133; Niagara, 22,823; Oneida, 22,173; Orange, 21,301.

Must Take Pay Cut Or Lose Jobs, Mill Workers Told

AUSABLE FORKS, N. Y. (AP) —The J. and J. Rogers paper mill here says employees must make a choice—take a five per cent pay cut or lose the plant and their jobs.

The plant, which employed 250, has been closed since spring. Operations were to be moved to Venezuela.

Last Friday, a group of Ausable Forks residents met with company officials, and the company said it would delay the move.

Supervisor James George, a member of the delegation, disclosed Sunday that the parent company, New Jersey Industries Inc., would resume operations within 10 days if the workers accepted the pay cut.

Local 501, International Papermakers and Paperworkers Union, will take up the matter at a meeting Tuesday night. Local officers recommend that the men agree to the pay cut.

George said Jacob Michael, owner of New Jersey Industries, promised he would raise the wages when the plant broke even financially.

Present wage scales were not available.

Nazi Leader's Son Ordained Priest

MARTIN A. BORMANN

INNSBRUCK, Austria (AP) — Martin Adolf Bormann, son of the Nazi leader who tried to wipe out religion, dedicated his life Saturday to bring "the grace of God to all mankind."

In a ceremony in the Jesuit Holy Trinity Church here, he was one of 26 deacons ordained priests of the Roman Catholic Church. He wants to do missionary work in the Belgian Congo.

Attending the rituals and united for the first time since the downfall of the Third Reich in 1945 were surviving members of the Bormann family.

Bormann's father, Hitler's top lieutenant and head of the Nazi party, disappeared from Hitler's bomb shelter in Berlin in the final days of the war. He was sentenced to death in absentia by the Allied War Tribunal at Nuremberg in 1946. He is believed dead.

Martin Jr., now a 28-year-old bearded monk of the Sacred Heart of Jesus Mission Order, became separated from his family and fled alone to the Austrian Province of Salzburg in 1945. He was sheltered by a Catholic family and accepted the Catholic faith in 1947. Shortly afterward he entered the Sacred Heart of Jesus in order to prepare for the priesthood.

YMCA Camp Starts 6th Week, Over 100 Attend

YMCA Day Camp starts its sixth week with another 100 in attendance at the DeWitt Lake resort this morning, it was announced by Richard Case, assistant camp director.

The seventh and eighth week of the camp, starting Monday, Aug. 4 are known as the two outstanding weeks of the season. All camp grove championships for individual honors are started. There are 18 different events. The final swimming, diving, track and field events are started and all championships will be concluded by Wednesday, Aug. 13. Case is making special preparation for all these events, so that they will be the finest ever promoted.

There are 21 boys and girls, either returning to camp, or starting new today. Many campers have finished the season with many returning next week for the 1958 championship finish in sports events.

This past week, because of a couple of rainy days, many new craft pieces were initiated in both the junior and senior camp. Out of specially made small pieces of wood and glue and especially designed pieces of cork, boys and girls were taught to make gondolas, pirate treasure trunks, hot plates, bird houses and many others. When painted in various colors it was considered by the camp director and counselors as the best craft work ever demonstrated and made at the camp. The clever paintings of totem poles, showed the response and cleverness of the campers in blending colors on the 12 inch totem pole. Director Case said. The counselors act as instructors in this type of work under the guidance of Mrs. Una Lawrence, supervisor in the junior camp.

Boys and girls attending camp for the first time and those returning after being absent for a couple of weeks are: Michael Farnham, Kathyan, Quebeman, Judy and Roger Allen, Kathleen Dunn, Andrea May, William Roosa, Ardyce Saunders, Keith Lown, Robert Mickel, Margaret O'Reilly, Susan Mizel, Sharon Swartzmiller, Richard Smith, David Mickel, David Hammer, Valery Jaenisch, Michael Lawlor, Joan Murphy and Stephanie LeFever.

General Chenault

at the request of Mme. Chiang to inspect the Chinese air force. He stayed on to instruct pilots and supervise the makeshift maintenance of the outmoded Chinese aircraft.

In 1941, Chenault formed the American Volunteer Group, later known as the Flying Tigers. With shark's teeth painted on the snouts of their outmoded P40 fighters, this outnumbered band of volunteers officially downed 286 Japanese planes in six months. They were generally credited with 300 more kills.

Flying Tiger losses: eight pilots killed in action.

Commanded 14th AF

After the United States entered the war, Chenault took command of the 14th Air Force in China as a brigadier general. He was promoted to major general in 1943. After the war, he remained in China, founding Civil Air Transport, a privately owned airline now operating out of Taipei.

Chenault remained with the Nationalist Chinese during their retreat on the mainland and mass exodus to Formosa. He returned to the United States for the last time in February to undergo extensive treatment for lung cancer.

Wouldn't Give Up

Chenault, however, would never admit his illness was serious. And despite its seriousness, he was convinced he would make the reunion of the Flying Tigers and 14th Air Force Aug. 7-9 in San Francisco.

Chenault is survived by his second wife Anna and their two daughters, Anna Claire, 10, and Cynthia Louise, 8. Other survivors include eight children by his first wife, Mrs. Nell Thomas Chenault of Waterproof, La.; Col. John S. Chenault, air attaché, U.S. Embassy, Madrid, Spain; Max T. Chenault, Atlanta; Mrs. Robert Lee, Los Angeles; M. Sgt. Charles Chenault, U.S. Air Force, Panama City, Fla.; Maj. Claire Patrick Chenault, USAF, Eglin Field, Fla.; David Chenault, Monroe, La.; Robert Chenault, Waterproof; and Mrs. Rosemary Martien, Cleveland, Tenn.

Also three brothers: Joe Chenault, Alexandria, La.; William S. Chenault, Sweetwater, Tex.; and Ernest N. Chenault, San Antonio, Tex.

Case Set for July 30

Lloyd Ronald Hayes, 45, of 74 Wall Street, was arrested Saturday by Officers Charles McCullough and William Slover on an indecent exposure charge. He was represented by Attorney Joseph Avis in court today and the case was put over to July 30. The arrest followed investigation of a complaint at Lawton Park, police said.

Dickinson Makes

world, Dickinson said, U. S. actions in the field of civil rights become even more important.

Would Match Soviet

Sunday, Finletter, one of Dickinson's opponents for the nomination, urged that the United States seize the opportunity of a summit meeting to match Russian propaganda with this country's program for peace in the Middle East.

Speaking on a local TV program, Finletter said that if for any reason the summit-U. N. Security Council meeting should not take place, "we should insist on a General Assembly meeting at which the President would present the American case."

Liberal, Says Farley

Farley, the third avowed candidate, sought over the weekend to defend his position as a liberal. Speaking Saturday at Bear Mountain, the former Democratic national chairman claimed a 48-year-record of fighting reaction as a Democrat.

This was his word for those who question his liberalism: "To those persons, whomsoever they may be, I say you are either grossly and inexcusably ignorant or you are deliberately ignorant or you are deliberately untruthful, or both."

On the Republican side, Leonard W. Hall, who is seeking the GOP nomination to oppose Harriman, criticized one of his Republican opponents, Nelson A. Rockefeller, for "not having expressed his opinion on anything."

Supervisors to Award Radio Contract 8 P.M.

A meeting of the board of supervisors will be held this evening at 8 o'clock for the purpose of awarding the contract for two-way radio system for use by Civil Defense, county firemen, sheriff's office and county highway department.

At the special meeting provisions will be made for financing the system. There are only two bids. Motorola bid $97,426.56 and General Electric $106,068. Matching funds are available from federal funds.

Vote Urged

the community are of such paramount concern as to justify its action in releasing itself from its pledge to the people. There is no doubt that the educational interests are of paramount concern and I commend the Board for its strong feeling in this regard. But another interest of as great, if not greater, importance to the children is also at stake. Our children are taught in school the importance of basic moral values. Can we expect them to heed such teaching and believe in the importance of such values if we ourselves fail to adhere to them?

We are in substantial agreement with the above quotation from your letter. We can think of no circumstances which would warrant a rejection of the Board's pledge to the people. A solemn pledge to the people should never be rejected. If a major change in the situation occurs, the question should again be put to the people of the City of Kingston for a vote. It is our opinion that, under the circumstances now existing, the only basis for the signing of a consolidation order by you would be a favorable vote for consolidation in a new referendum. What was not moral on July 2nd, 1958 is not moral now.

We note with interest the most recent resolution of the Board of Education referring the consolidation matter back to your consideration. We note that the basis for sending it back to you was that the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce apparently favors consolidation, even against the express wishes of the people. If this is so, there is little change since the Chamber of Commerce has been in favor of it even before the vote. Of course, many members of the Chamber of Commerce are not even residents of the City of Kingston.

We further note with interest, the reference in your letter to "major educational and civic organizations in the city." At the outset, we wish to state that our government is a government of the people and not a government of organizations. It is a people upon whom the burden of taxation falls. This means that organizations in the city are high or low. You state in your letter that nearly all these organizations have endorsed consolidation. The resolution of the Board of Education dated April 2nd, 1958, states that nine organizations favored the proposed Kingston Area consolidation and that one Kingston Civic Association opposed it. These ten organizations are not nearly a majority of the educational and civic organizations in the city. One could readily name twenty-five or thirty more. At least one of the organizations, the Kingston Daily Freeman, which went on record prior to April 2nd, 1958 as favoring consolidation, wrote an editorial on April 3rd, 1958, bitterly denouncing the action of the Board of Education in overriding the express wishes of the people. It would be interesting to ascertain the present feeling of the other organizations who favored consolidation before the referendum. Many people who strongly favored consolidation, have bitterly denounced the Board for overriding the wishes of the people.

The action of the board in overriding the people shows complete and utter disregard for their opinion, which said opinion was requested of them by the board, with the solemn pledge by the board that they would abide by their wishes. Now the same board apparently is disregarding the express provisions of the Educational Law relative to the preparation of a tentative budget for the current year. In some recent correspondence with the Mayor of the City of Kingston, the Board of Education substantially admits that no public hearing on the current budget was held, as required by the Educational Law and seeks to excuse its failure to abide by the law by blaming the Corporation Counsel of the City of Kingston, although, it had informed him shortly after it overrode the vote of the people that it did desire his legal services and retained separate counsel for the appeal before you.

It is such action as the foregoing, which undermines "the faith of the people in all government officials." We respectfully request that no further action on the greater Kingston consolidation be taken by you until such time as the matter has been submitted to the people of the City of Kingston in a referendum and that no consolidation order be signed by you until the people of the City of Kingston express themselves in favor of such order by a majority of those voters voting in said referendum.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP)—Coppers were higher in a mixed stock market early this afternoon. Trading was heavy.

Key stocks showed gains or losses of fractions to about a point. The trend was slightly higher in early dealings but more losses appeared as profits were taken on the strong rise of last week. Chemicals, big gainers last week, were clipped. Motors were mostly steady. The coppers came to life with a sudden spurt.

The weekend business news was encouraging over-all but the relatively high level of prices left many stocks vulnerable.

Steels, rails and oils were irregular. Aircrafts and electronics showed a higher tendency.

Kennecott rose about two points, Anaconda well over a point and Phelps Dodge a fraction.

Bronx Man's Body Found on 32, Hit And Run Victim

Armand Velez, 48, of 500 Trinity Avenue, Bronx, was found dead alongside Route 32 near the outskirts of the hamlet of Plattkill early last night.

The man, believed to be a summer visitor in the area, was apparently the victim of a hit-run driver, according to Highland state police.

He was found lying near the road at 9:10 p. m. by a passing motorist.

Cpl. Al Chicco, BCI, and Trooper P. M. Luongo reported that the unidentified motorist notified a constable in the town of Plattkill who called the barracks.

Coroner Francis J. McCordle is withholding a verdict pending an autopsy. The body was removed to the Ulster County Morgue here.

McCordle said the man suffered lacerations of the head and face and some fractured bones. Troopers said the car which struck Velez is believed to be a 1949 black Plymouth. There was no explanation.

Redeemer Church Group Return From Silver Bay

A delegation from the Lutheran Church of the Redeemer has returned from the Lutheran Summer School for church workers held last week at Silver Bay-on-Lake George.

Headed by the pastor, the Rev. David C. Gaise and Louise Carlson, Redeemer's parish worker, the group of 15 leaders attended courses and conferences led by outstanding clergymen and laymen of the United Lutheran Church along with nearly 800 other churchmen and women from New York and New England.

The Rev. Mr. Gaise was chosen to present the closing twilight hour meditation at the school which was conducted by the chaplain, the Rev. Paul E. Henry, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Red Hook.

The Redeemer group, billed as "The Kingstonsians," were invited to participate in the final fellowship program of the school and sang two musical selections, the words for which were written by their own members especially for the occasion. One was written by Mrs. Burton Berge under the inspiration of a pre-dawn hike up Sunrise Mountain, and the second, used as a finale, was "Silver Bay" written a number of years ago by Mr. and Mrs. William M. Daum describing the spiritual experiences at the Silver Bay School.

The delegation included, besides Pastor Gaise and Miss Carlson, Mrs. Gaise and daughters, Carol and Jean Gaise; Mr. and Mrs. Berge, Mr. and Mrs. Daum and children, William and Johanna; Miss Evelyn Rosa, Merritt Rose, Robert and Barbara DuMont, Helen Breder and Louisa-May Voightlander.

Opposite Twins
HONOLULU (AP) — Robert Cates, Oahu County Democratic chairman, and Edward Johnston, Oahu County Republican chairman, are opposite politically—but look-alikes in other ways. Both are 40 years old, live in the same neighborhood, originally came from Illinois and arrived in Hawaii as servicemen. Both sell insurance and at one time worked for the same concern at adjoining desks. They served together on the board of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, and each became active in local politics in 1954. As an added "resemblance," each feels a little sorry for the other. Each thinks the other is in the wrong political party.

THEY'LL DO IT EVERY TIME (Registered U. S. Patent Office) By JIMMY HATLO

Do You Remember by Sophie Miller

I have a copy of Thursday, June 10, 1945, of the Kingston Daily Freeman my father saved because of a Kingston Point Park picture.

It is a Freeman photo taken in 1943 during a picnic and outing of 350 students and members of the faculty of St. Joseph's High and Junior High Schools of Rensselaer who came to Kingston Point Park on a Day Line steamer.

The bridge to the pier is still there and you can see people walking back and forth over it. This is a photographic proof that in 1943 our Kingston Point Park pier was in condition to receive a dayliner and that the bridge was there then. In fact the walks even look orderly which can be seen in the photograph. I am often asked when is the last time the pier was used for a boat landing and by whom. I do not know if 1943 is the last time.

In that same paper there is a long story about the doings in Kingston Point in the olden days or early 1900's. It tells about an excellent Italian band which played for several summers and also there were local orchestras. Music was a must by 'live' musicians not juke boxes. He tells about the large pavilion on the pier which was two stories high and open on all sides. On the upper floor of this pavilion were benches from which visitors could have a magnificent view of the Hudson up and down the river, enjoy the cooling breezes, and also refreshments which could be bought there. There was also a place for silent movies which could be seen by folks who came in rowboats on the Hudson.

Dancing was very popular in those days, more than it is now. They had it at the park and later they turned the hall into a movie and vaudeville theatre, and such movies as featuring Mary Pickford, Mack Sennett bathing beauties were shown with live vaudeville.

It also said, that the late William Miller, who operated the Stuyvesant barber shop on Fair Street at the time also conducted a shooting gallery in the park. In the lagoon, near the old bandstand, was the rowing concession, where you could rent a rowboat for 25 cents an hour. I remember my father liked to row and on Sundays would take a boat while I relaxed and tried to get pond-lilies which grew all around in water. You could row to nice music coming from the bandstand.

To my father, who was in the store all week it was a pleasure to be outdoors and have such pleasant exercise and he would miss it if the weather was bad on a summer's Sunday.

No doubt the younger generation in reading this think it is sort of a story made up by older folks but there are pictures to prove it. Hot summer nights the open trolley cars would be crowded with men and boys standing on the running boards to give the ladies seats on the benches all bound for the cool park. At midnight just before the last trolley would take off for Kingston the big bell sounded and from all parts of the park people would come running to catch that last trolley. Many local families spent whole days there, and at the beach with the men folks coming down to join them in the evening, to have his supper from a basket-lunch.

Health for All

The Gourmet's Delight

"Take a wolf's liver boiled in thin wine, bacon of a sow fed on herbs, and the flesh of a she-donkey. Eat with the broth."

A Cordon Bleu Casserole? No. An ancient Roman cure for tuberculosis.

Recipes for TB cures can be found in the records of every civilization from ancient to modern times. The theory seems to have been: the more ghastly the medicine the more likely the cure. They all start with exotic ingredients such as these: "Take a peck of snails... take a tree frog... take a vulture's lung."

It's possible that some people who took these medicines got better. Otherwise the recipes wouldn't have been preserved. Occasionally, people do recover from TB without any treatment, so good results were probably pure coincidence.

Modern treatment of TB doesn't depend on coincidence. When a research scientist gets a clue to a substance that may have an effect on tuberculosis, he tests it in many ways before it is used on human beings. The drug has to show its effectiveness against TB germs in test tubes. It has to be proved safe on laboratory animals. It has to be tested over a long period of time, to be sure that there are no bad effects after its use, and that its effectiveness will last. It is used under careful supervision on thousands of patients before it is released for general use.

Scientists have developed several effective drugs which help cure TB patients. There is not yet one ideal drug that will cure every case. There may never be one. Research continues for more and better drugs. No clue is neglected—not even the possibility that wolf's liver may have some value.

SEC Has Strong Code to Prevent Asking of Favors

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Securities and Exchange Commission has adopted a strong code of ethics to guide its members against any efforts of government bigwigs seeking to influence the agency's decisions.

Announcement of the code came in the wake of a recent House investigation that turned up evidence that a White House aide, at the request of Sherman Adams, had inquired about a case before the SEC involving Adam's friend Bernard Goldfine.

The code—adopted Friday—stipulates that members of the five-man commission should:

1. Be firmly independent and "reject any effort by representatives of the executive or legislative branches" to affect their decisions.
 2. Not be swayed by partisan demands, public clamor or considerations of personal popularity.
 3. Administer the law without regard to personalities.
 4. Not become indebted or accept loans, presents or favors of undue value from persons who are regulated by the SEC or who may come under its jurisdiction.
- The commission regulates trading in stocks and bonds.

Michigan Waters Diversion Threat to Seaway: Ave

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congress would endanger the entire St. Lawrence Seaway if it should approve a new proposal to divert Lake Michigan waters, Gov. Averell Harriman said today.

The New York governor said also the diversion would reduce the output of hydroelectric plants at Niagara Falls, on the St. Lawrence River and at Quebec.

Hike for Consumers
The potential cutback would add at least 75 million dollars over the next 50 years to bills of consumers served by those projects, Harriman concluded.

The governor's remarks were in a statement prepared for delivery at a hearing of a Senate subcommittee on public works.

J. Burch McMorran, chief engineer of the New York Power Authority, represented the governor. McMorran is also New York State representative on the International St. Lawrence Power Control Board.

The public works subcommittee is considering a bill that would authorize Chicago to divert an additional 1,000 cubic feet per second of Lake Michigan water.

Chicago, a Lake Michigan port city, wants the additional water to improve navigation on a waterway between the lake and the Mississippi River.

A diversion of 1,000 cubic feet per second would be a total drain of 648 million gallons a day.

Great Lakes states contend the diversion would lower levels of all the lakes.

New York is constructing at Niagara Falls a hydroelectric project to use power created by runoff of Lake Erie over the falls and into Lake Ontario.

Flows Into St. Lawrence

Water from Lake Ontario flows into the St. Lawrence River and out to sea. It is this rush that has been famed for the St. Lawrence project.

The House has approved the current measure for the diversion. President Eisenhower vetoed similar bills in 1954 and 1956.

Harriman told the committee a vast expansion program was under way in the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence region with water as the primary resource.

Not the Time

"It should be elementary that this is hardly the time to start draining these waters away," the governor said.

Harriman asserted that the proposed plan called for a maximum diversion at Chicago during dry seasons and "our plants will be hurt most when they can least afford it."

Saturday, Sen. Charles E. Potter (R-Mich) contended in a statement that diverting the waters would hurt the economic development of the Great Lakes Basin.

Ave Urges Development Plan for Middle East

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — The United States, Russia and western European countries should join in promoting a development plan for the Middle East, Gov. Harriman suggests.

Harriman urged the Eisenhower administration to recommend the idea at the proposed summit meeting of heads of government.

"Such a proposal would regain for us the initiative we have lost in the Middle East," the Democratic governor said in a statement Saturday. He added that cooperation among countries in such a program would be a platform for reaching political settlements.

Harriman said nations supplying development funds might be repaid with oil from those oil-producing countries in the area. Other arrangements would be necessary with non-oil countries, he added.

About Experience

By FRANK TRIPP

If the old saws hold truth, something serious is happening to the new generation. How about "Experience is the best teacher" or "There's no substitute for experience"? The school of experience was our forebears' alma mater.

Its courses never ended; no body ever finished or got a diploma. Yet no school ever had more students or more boosters. Classes convened everywhere, from Blackstone's law office to da Vinci's paint shop, and the village smithy.

The school is still running, tuition free and pay while you learn, but progress has added a new gimmick. Now it takes a lad 48 years to get where dad got in 40.

In 40 years there are 2080 weeks. Every one of these weeks dad "went to school" at least one more day than his son goes. The son is a steady student if he "attends school" 240 days a year these times.

BASED ON the school's new semesters (days worked), dad would have taken 48 years and 40 days to equal the experience that he gained in his 40 work years.

Far worse, today he could not get, in industry, his most important experience; that which moved him up the ladder, the chance to show his stuff.

This is no quarrel with the five-day week. It is a realistic look at one answer to the unheard lament, "they aren't turning 'em out like they used to." Meaning an old-timer's unfair comparison of the experience to be had in two very different lifetimes, spent in vastly different economies.

THE VALUE of experience has not changed. Experience still can only be gained by hours actually spent on a job or in the practice of a profession. The true measure of experience is that which is required of an aviator; the hours spent in the air, not in the hangar.

Experience as the "best teacher" has become a tough way to attain the maximum of knowledge within a lifetime. Which is practical argument for more youth education in the vocations that absorb a majority of the population. A lad's chance to know more at the start than his dad knew, in the trades as well as in the sciences.

LET'S TAKE the case of a top mechanic who started at a lathe and became superintendent, and his son, now working at the same lathe. It adds up that dad had the breaks experience-wise. The son is getting much leisure and whoopee, the economy less man-hour production; while prices skyrocket to take up the slack.

Whoopee or none, the son has ambitions. He resents the restricted hours to learn. He thinks much about dad's freedom, in his day, to get about the plant, to apply his hand anywhere, to learn the whole business right to the finished product.

He realizes why dad harped about experience until he came to hate the word. He knows why dad can do so many things perfectly that he can only blunder through or cannot do at all; because he gets no chance to learn how.

HE KNOWS now why Big Jim got to be foreman, dad to be superintendent and Mr. Simms to be president; all from a start at a lathe.

No plant rules or union laws chained them to the lathe or said where they could work and how long. Nobody said they couldn't touch a tool that didn't fit into a lathe. Else they still would be running a lathe.

He knows that the old shop alibi "pull with the boss" didn't win for dad, Jim of Mr. Simms; that it was hours they spent on the job, the all around experience that the hours game them, and unrestricted freedom to apply what they knew.

Then he asks a question that stumps dad: "How in heaven's name can I ever get the experience that you had?"

And dad says, "You can't lad; you won't live long enough." (Copyright, 1958, General Features Corp.)

Erie, Lackawanna, Track Merger To Start Sept. 1

HORNELL, N. Y. (AP)—Work on the Erie and Lackawanna track consolidation program will start after Sept. 1, an Erie spokesman reports.

The Interstate Commerce Commission has authorized the two railroads to consolidate main line tracks for about 100 miles between Binghamton and Gibson.

Meanwhile, the Elmira Assn. of Commerce planned to meet tonight to decide whether the group will dispute the ICC decision announced last Friday.

The association wants the consolidation to include the Lackawanna tracks around Elmira. But the approved plan is for operations over the Erie tracks through the heart of the city.

Will Save Money
The railroads estimate the consolidation will save them well over a million dollars a year.

Authorization for the move was granted by a three-man ICC division acting for the full commission.

Objectors may appeal to the full commission and then, if necessary, to the courts.

Carl S. Kinbach, division superintendent of the Erie Railroad, made the announcement on the starting date last Saturday.

He said first orders for equipment and material would be placed within a month.

Resolve Shaken

NEW YORK (AP)—Paul Gregory just can't completely give up his enthusiasm for coast-to-coast tryouts of productions prior to Broadway presentation. Gregory during the last several years has booked such productions as "Don Juan in Hell" and "The Caine Mutiny Court Martial" into more than 70 cities. For his next production, "Marriage-Go-Round," he vowed that he would give all that up and arrive on the White Way after a brief tour of nearby tryout towns. The final agenda for the Leslie Stevens comedy starring Charles Boyer and Claudette Colbert however begins in San Francisco, goes to Denver and completes the warm-up in Philadelphia.

WESTFIELD, N. Y. (AP)—A 51-year-old woman lay in critical condition today, shot through the jaw by her husband who hanged himself.

The husband, Henry Warnshuis, 85, shot her with a .22 caliber rifle Sunday, beat her with the weapon, then committed suicide in a shed behind their home, police said.

The assault took place in the kitchen.

After he left her, his wife, Mrs. Ada Warnshuis, fled to a neighbor's home and collapsed.

Warnshuis was a retired farmer. Authorities said they did not know what brought on the attack.

Denunciations Will Be FutileWorld Expects Ike, Premier To Produce Plans for Peace

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower and Premier Khrushchev could just as well stay home—for all the good they'll do — if they turn their summit meeting into a gab session on who struck John.

That's what they've been doing so far in their exchange of letters: they've clubbed each other over the head, each blaming the other side for stirring up the Middle East.

Solutions Vague
Khrushchev has written vaguely about "recommendations" and "solutions" at the summit meeting. Eisenhower, even more vague on what the meeting should do, so far hasn't even said he'd be there himself—though others say he will if there is a meeting.

Both men have an opportunity to come up with solid, creative proposals for assuring Middle East peace and stability. There's no indication either will go to the meeting with such proposals ready.

Even if they do, it won't be easy to get agreement. For example: if all the Arab states were linked together peacefully tomorrow, how could they then be kept from trying to destroy the Jewish state of Israel?

No Direct Solution Seen
Most likely no solutions will come directly from the summit conference. Perhaps because, of time and details involved, the most that can be expected in some general agreement on working for a solution.

Then the matter could be turned over to the big powers' foreign ministers to be hammered out. And then the chances for accomplishing exactly nothing look bright indeed.

That's what happened after the summit meeting three years ago. The generalized and high-sounding pronouncements of West and East at Geneva in 1955 evaporated when the foreign ministers later got together to work them out.

The Eisenhower-Khrushchev letters on this expected meeting have been highly self-conscious performances, with the whole world watching.

Khrushchev, handed a free chance to wrap himself in the role of peacemaker, called for a summit meeting and blamed the West for Middle East troubles. It was a wonderful propaganda chance. And he took it.

Ike on Defensive
He put Eisenhower on the defensive. Much of the President's answering letter was taken up with explaining the American position and trying to dump the basic blame on the Soviet Union for what happened among the Arabs.

Once the two men get together the world is going to look for something more substantial than propaganda. So both will be under pressure to produce solutions instead of denunciations. This may not deter them.

But if one side balks at what looks like reasonable proposals from the other, everyone will be in a position to see who's stalling. Look out if there is only general, but no detailed, agreement.

With the summit meeting ended and the job of working out details later handed over to the foreign ministers, everything, as in the past, can be quietly strangled.

Second Victim
LITTLE FALLS, N. Y. (AP)—A second man is dead as the result of an automobile accident last May 23.

Stanley Burkhardt, 21, of St. Johnsville, died Sunday of injuries suffered when the car hit a tree. He never regained consciousness.

Bruce Harbster, 20, of Fort Plain, was killed in the accident.

As a country, our per capita average of 15.1 gallons was 10th, far below leading Belgium's 37 gallons a year per person.

Women Voters League To Organize Here

A Kingston unit of the League of Women Voters will be organized here this fall.

Announcement of the formation of the local group was made last week by Mrs. Robert S. Yallum, temporary chairman.

Current plans involve formation of one or more local discussion groups under the New Paltz League of Women Voters. Mrs. Yallum pointed out that this arrangement has already been successfully attempted in northern New York, where the Canton League of Women Voters sponsors a unit in Potsdam.

The League, a non-partisan organization, functions through small discussion units which objectively study community, state and national issues. Once a group has taken a stand on a question, the League works through local channels of communication to inform the electorate.

Typical projects involve helping to get out the community vote on Election Day, publishing the qualifications of all candidates, furnishing the community with information on current issues and working for legislation in the public interest. The organization takes action in relation to issues alone; it neither supports nor opposes political parties or candidates.

Area women interested in joining the new group are urged to call either Mrs. Bernard Bouton, 260 Smith Avenue, or Mrs. Harry Lawson of Woodstock.

Patricia Ann Martin, Raymond T. Schuler Are United in Marriage at St. Joseph's

The marriage of Miss Patricia Ann Martin of 28 Taylor Street, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William B. Martin, to Raymond Thomas Schuler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond J. Schuler of 198 East Chester Street, took place Saturday, July 26.

The couple were married before a Nuptial Mass at 10 a. m. in St. Joseph's Church.

Officiating clergyman was the Rev. Adam J. Otterbein, CSSR, of the Redemptorist Order, Mt. St. Alphonsus, Esopus, assisted by the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Stephen P. Connelly, pastor of St. Joseph's Church. Mrs. Frank Rafferty was organist for the occasion. Soloist was a cousin of the bridegroom, Miss Margaret Bujak.

The altar was adorned with sprays of white gladioli.

Given in marriage by her brother, William B. Martin of Ellenville, the bride wore a handclipped imported Chantilly lace gown styled with a basque bodice, scalloped Sabrina neckline and long pointed sleeves. Panniers of wide Chantilly lace falling from the basque waist to the floor formed a border to the harem-draped chapel length train. She carried a white satin covered prayer book with cascading stephanotis on satin streamers and a centerpiece of white orchids. An elbow-length veil of imported silk bridal illusion fell from a scalloped tiara of silk illusion.

Mrs. Joseph G. Vacca of Schenectady, sister of the bride, served as matron of honor. She was attired in a waltz length gown of romantic blue nylon chiffon with bolero draped bodice over matching satin. Her headpiece of matching chiffon and maline was a bow headband. She carried shrimp colored Rubrum lilies.

Attendants included Mrs. John L. Larkin of Kingston and Miss Madalyn A. Cuming of Coopers-town. They were attired in gowns identical in style to that worn by the honor attendant except in coral pink tone with bouquets of blue bachelor buttons.

Her hat was a bow-headache band of white. She also wore an orchid.

Riggs' Musical, 'Lilacs' Opens At Phoenicia Aug. 5

"Green Grow the Lilacs," Lynn Riggs' popular folk musical, will be presented at Phoenicia Playhouse August 5 through 10.

The play originally produced on Broadway by the Theatre Guild, was hailed for its "humor, vitality and touching sweetness."

Author Riggs said that his sole purpose in writing "Green Grow the Lilacs" was to "recapture . . . the great range of mood which characterized the old folk songs and ballads I used to hear in my Oklahoma childhood . . . their hearty and bawdy humor, their sentimentalities, and their melodrama."

The Broadway production proved so successful that the Theatre Guild commissioned Rogers and Hammerstein to write a modern musical comedy, using "Green Grow the Lilacs" as the book. What happened then was musical history. "Oklahoma" was born and became one of the all-time smash hits of the American stage. Rogers and Hammerstein were faithful to their original source, and consequently "Oklahoma" retained all of the robust flavor and luminous simplicity of "Green Grow the Lilacs."

Paul Kielar, playhouse producer, explained that "we decided to produce this play because we were touched by the beauty and enchantment of the story and songs. Its an exciting and challenging prospect, and the entire company is already hard at work learning the songs and dances we will feature in the show."

Ellen Gear, who recently appeared at the Miami Music Fair, will play Laurey, Ellen's last appearance with the playhouse was in "The Matchmaker" earlier this season.

The Phoenicia Playhouse is located on Route 214, just five minutes north of Phoenicia. Single admission and season tickets are available at the box office.

Good Taste Today

By EMILY POST

Author of "Children Are People" and "Etiquette" etc.

CHAPERONED BY HER GOOD SENSE

Dear Mrs. Post: I am a young woman in my late twenties and for the past five years have been on my own. I received a fine upbringing, and good education and have always believed in conducting myself with dignity. I live alone in a two-room apartment. My men friends to whom I have been properly introduced share my standards. After spending an evening together they see me to my apartment and I usually invite them in for a little while. I never questioned this action until recently when an older woman friend was shocked when I told her this. She said that it would be perfectly all right to ask a man in if there was another person present, but never alone. To me, being able to be alone with someone is an indication that I respect and trust both myself and the person involved sufficiently. And, furthermore, my values are not changed by the presence of a third party. Have I been wrong all this time?

Answer: From what you tell me I do not think you should be criticized for asking the sort of man you describe in "for a little while."

Inviting Those Who Have Not Called

Dear Mrs. Post: I am a young bride living in my husband's home town. Should I invite my husband's friends to our apartment, or am I right in expecting them to call on us first or invite us to their houses?

Answer: They should go to see you first, but if they're intimate friends of his, there is no reason why you should not invite them if he wants you to.

When Wrong Is Accepted as Right

Dear Mrs. Post: How should I write to a divorced friend who has taken back her maiden name? I've been told she is calling herself what she did prior to her marriage, using the title Miss. Isn't it supposed to be incorrect to do this?

Answer: Socially, yes. But you can't do other than address her as "Miss" if this is the name by which she has re-established herself.

Is it proper for boys and girls to exchange presents? This is one of the questions in a quiz written by Mrs. Post in leaflet-E-1, "Do You Know Your ABC's in Manners?" (For boys and girls of high-school age.) Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to Dept. EP, care of The Freeman, P.O. MR. AND MRS. WILHELM CLAUSEN

Miss Ingeborg Schulz United in Marriage To Wilhelm Clausen

Two Eddyville residents exchanged wedding vows Saturday, July 19, at Trinity Lutheran Church, Spring and Hone Streets, in a setting of white and pink gladioli.

The bride was Ingeborg Schulz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gustav Schulz of Eddyville, and the bridegroom, Wilhelm Clausen, formerly of Germany.

Officiating clergyman was the pastor of the church, the Rev. Frank L. Gollnick, DD. It was a double ring ceremony, and took place at 2:30 p. m.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor length gown, very bouffant, of lace with a sabrina neckline, long pointed lace sleeves, fitted bodice, and her skirt had inserts of lace.

A full length veil was held by headpieces, which like the veil, are family heirlooms.

The bride carried a cascade of white roses with a white orchid center.

Miss Helga Helber of Eddyville was maid of honor. She wore a coral gown of pure silk organza princess style, with draped portrait neckline, and a coral tiara and halo veil. She carried a cascade of yellow roses.

Bridesmaids were Miss Alide Weber of Rosendale, and Mrs. Marianne Heigemeir of Rifton. They wore gowns identical to the maid of honor, in blue and aqua, with matching tiaras, and carried pink roses.

The flower girl, Renate Walter, a niece of the bride, wore a pink nylon dress, and carried a basket of pink, yellow and white roses.

John Bruening of West Hurley was best man.

Ushers were Franz Heigemeir of Rifton and Guenter Schulz of Beaufort, S. C., a brother of the bride.

Following a reception at Maennerchor Hall, 37 Greenkill Avenue, this city, the couple left for a honeymoon trip to Niagara Falls.

A Texas GI was playing poker with some English soldiers. He drew four aces. Englishman (on his right)—One pound. Texan—Ah don't know how you'll count your money but ah'll raise you a ton.

John Bach McMaster, the historian, told this story of Abraham Lincoln.

When he was a very small boy he was taken to a reception at the White House. The guests were lined up and led past the President under the watchful eyes of the ushers. No one was allowed to come very close or to shake his hand. One old man, who had come a long distance just for this occasion, was very disappointed at not having shaken hands with the President. Just before leaving the line the old-timer waved his hat at the President and shouted.

Old timer—Mr. President, I'm from up in York state where we believe that God Almighty and Abraham Lincoln are going to save this country.

President (jovially waving back at him)—My friend, you're half right.

Words are like sunbeams — the more they are condensed the deeper the burn.

When good King Arthur ruled the land of Britain, he had a goodly throng of knights. Devoted they were to the king, but of each other very jealous. Quarrel followed quarrel as to precedence at the king's table. The king, tired of the bickering, and could ill spare those who had died fighting over who should sit nearest the head of the table.

King Arthur had a solution. He built a round table to seat the knights, so that all might be equal. Tradition says that henceforth all went well. Instead of fighting each other, they all fought for the king.

NEW YORK (AP)—The wife of a Brooklyn policeman was charged Sunday with beating her 3-year-old daughter to death.

fell and injured her head when she ran away from the whipping. She said the child struck her head on an open bureau drawer.

The girl was put to bed Saturday night. Later that night, the mother said, May appeared to grow restless in her sleep.

Mrs. Gaffney said she tried to telephone her physician but could not reach him. The father, James Gaffney, a seven-year-veteran on the force, was on duty during the incident.

The mother said she awoke about 5 a. m. and checked on the child. When May couldn't be wakened an ambulance was summoned.

Mrs. Gaffney, who has three other children, two by a previous marriage, was charged with homicide.

U. S. Planes Reported Moving Arms to Jordan

AMMAN, Jordan (AP)—The British Embassy said today the U.S. Air Force Sunday night began airlifting supplies of ammunition from Cyprus for British troops in Jordan. An embassy spokesman said a dozen C119 Flying Boxcars were involved.

"These aircraft are more suitable for certain types of supplies than ours," he said.

He added the American airlift supplements the regular British airlift from the Cyprus base, to last probably about a week.

Algerian Rebels Slay Four and Injure 37

ALGIERS (AP)—Algerian nationalist rebels killed at least 4 persons and injured 37 in terrorist attacks over the weekend.

Foreign Legion paratroopers again moved into the ancient native Casbah of Algiers, the stronghold of the rebel spirit in the city. Among the weekend's victims was Ali Akrou, pro-French mayor of the village of Boudjima in the rebel-infested Kabylie Mountains. He was cut down by two pistol bullets as he ventured outside his village, held by a French army battalion.

Postmasters Named

WASHINGTON (AP)—Postmaster nominations in New York State, approved by President Eisenhower and before the Senate, include Harold C. Bushart, East Williamston and Lee Gardner Annis, Ellicottville.

Leash Developed To Lead Copters

WASHINGTON (AP)—If you see a man with a helicopter on a leash don't question your sanity.

The Defense Department announced Sunday night the development of a tether or leash which enables a man on the ground to lead a hovering helicopter around as it were a kite.

The purpose is to permit precise hovering operations where the helicopter pilot can't see the ground directly below.

The Sikorsky Aircraft Division of United Aircraft Corp. developed the 50-foot-long tether device for such purposes as enabling helicopters to place utility poles in pre-dug holes or to land in restricted or congested spots such as heli-platforms or ships at sea.

Prince Charles Tops Class in Geography

LONDON (AP)—The Prince of Wales, 9-year-old Charles, is top of his class in geography. And his French is coming on well, too.

He cheered up his ailing mother, Queen Elizabeth II, by bringing home this bright report card to Buckingham Palace over the weekend. The Queen is covering from a sharp attack of sinusitis.

Charles, who is at Cheam School 40 miles west of London, heard his mother's recorded television announcement Saturday that she was naming him Prince of Wales, the first since his uncle, Edward the VIII, now Duke of Windsor. A few hours later the term examination results were posted on the school board.

Austrian Chancellor Wins Oil Reduction

MOSCOW (AP)—Austrian Chancellor Julius Raab left Moscow today after a one-week visit during which he won a 50 per cent reduction in oil reparations to the Soviet Union.

Soviet Premier Khrushchev went to Moscow airport to wish Raab a jolly goodbye.

In a brief Raab a jovial goodbye. The Austrian independence treaty signed in 1955 committed Austria to supply 10 million tons of oil to the Soviet Union as reparations by 1965. The reduction was the chief object of Raab's visit.

Finds Thief With Car And His $1,000 Fund

CLEVELAND (AP)—A visitor from Philadelphia, Levi Hennant, went to police headquarters to report the theft of his car.

As he and a friend drove away from the station they spotted an auto that looked familiar. Giving chase, they forced it to the curb. Sure enough, it was Hennant's car.

While his friend collared the 17-year-old boy who had been driving the missing vehicle, Hennant anxiously opened the trunk.

The youth hadn't bothered to look inside. There, untouched, was the paper sack containing Hennant's $1,000 in vacation money.

Here's the 'How' of Squeeze Play

BY OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

In response to numerous requests, I am going to devote this week's articles to a discussion of the "squeeze play."

The basis of the squeeze play is pressure. You use your low cards to force a defender to discard some of his high cards.

The simplest squeeze is the one-way pressure squeeze on one opponent in two suits.

In today's hand South wins the opening lead of the king of spades with dummy's ace and notes that he only has 12 tricks and no apparent chance for the 13th.

After a little thought about partners who bid grand slams, South sees some hope. West is marked with the queen of spades. Maybe it is singleton, so South trumps the four of spades in his own hand just in case.

The queen does not drop, so now South draws trumps, cashes of his trumps. Dummy's last four of the two clubs and runs the rest cards are the ace-king-small of diamonds and the jack of spades.

West has to discard before dummy and must go down to two diamonds in order to retain the spade queen. Since East had started with only two diamonds he could never stop the suit and South makes his grand slam.

South was lucky to catch West with four diamonds but he had used the squeeze most effectively.

WARRENSBURG, N. Y. (AP)—Robert Montgomery, 18, of Peekskill, was drowned Saturday in an Adirondack creek.

He had been camping near Warrensburg with several fellow students from Albany State Teachers College.

Montgomery was swimming in Dippikill Creek when he suddenly called for help and disappeared. A companion, Niles Briska of Albany, was in the water but was unable to reach him in time.

Dr. Patrick H. Huntington, Warren County coroner, issued a certificate of accidental death.

The red hot Saugerties Dutchmen kept in the thick of the New York-New Jersey League race yesterday with a three-run rally in the eighth inning to down Beacon, 8-6 at Cantine Field.

The Dutchmen now trail the league leading Nyack Welders by one-half game. They blanked Spring Valley 6-0 yesterday to keep its slim lead.

Don Pomerico had things pretty much his way for the first six innings, cutting down the homebats with a combination fast ball and changeup pitch until the bubble burst in the 8th.

Down 5-3 in the fifth, the Dutchmen came up with a run in the fifth and another in the seventh to throw the tilt into a tie. Billy Straub slid across homeplate with the tying run in the seventh while the Beacon first sacker was bobbling a double-play relay from the shortstop.

In the eighth, after Jim Mackey was safely on with a bad-bounce hit over the third sacker's head wound up at second base when the ball got away from the outfielder.

Don McCaig sent the tie-breaking marker across with a smash through the left side of the infield and he later scored when Barry Brice's roller was muffed by Joe Garo. The clincher was easily scored by Brice on Bob Schaffer's well executed bunt.

Clark Mains started for the Dutchmen, but gave way to Mackey in the fifth. Some shoddy fielding got Mains in hot water in the early innings.

Joe Martin led Saugerties' 12-hit attack with three safeties. John Mustian had a triple and double and McCaig and Straub each delivered a pair of safeties. Jim Lashlee led Beacon's 13-hit attack with three hits.

Bob Maines Fans 15, But Yanks Fail Again, 3-2

The Kingston Yankees are finding the victory road tough in the New York-New Jersey League. Manager Sal Ciacco's hitless wonders dropped one to the Jersey City Colored Cardinals, 3-2 in Dietz Stadium with a late inning surge.

Bob Maines, Yanks' finger, didn't deserve that fate, but it was the kind of game that could have gone either way and obviously the cards were stacked against Maines.

But the Yanks inability to hit has been their biggest drawback. They garnered only four hits off Art Owens and Hank Edwards, two of them in the third inning when they got their only runs.

Maines, who set 15 down on strikes, found the strike zone a little hard at times. He walked 10 batters and wildness proved to be his downfall in the last two innings when the Cards scored runners in the eighth and ninth.

Johnny Schoenberger, who has been having trouble getting basehits, got two of the four Yanks safeties.

IL's All Stars In Deep Slump

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The International League All-Stars face the Milwaukee Braves at Toronto tonight with the All-Stars needing more in the way of hitting than they got from their sluggers yesterday.

Seven of the International's batters came to the plate for a total of 26 at bats and could muster only four hits and a single run batted in.

The Braves are scheduled to play an exhibition game with the All-Stars at Toronto's Maple Leaf Stadium.

In yesterday's games the Montreal Royals blanked the Havana Sugar Kings 2-0 and the Miami Marlins did likewise to the Toronto Maple Leafs 3-0. The Columbus Jets defeated the Buffalo Bisons 3-1. The scheduled doubleheader between the Rochester Redwings and the Richmond Virginians was rained out.

Yank Trackmen Lead Russia

U. S. Women Make Great Showing

By STERLING SLAPPEY

Associated Press Sports Writer
MOSCOW (AP) — One of the great spectacles of sports — The United States vs the Soviet Union in a track and field meet in the heart of the Communist world — threatened today to become also one of the great upsets.

America's stalwart team of men and women went into the second day of the two-day competition holding an 83-75 margin. And Uncle Sam's lads and lassies have a fair chance of holding or increasing the precarious lead.

The United States' men figured to defeat the Russian men. But the Soviet women were rated far too powerful for the American gals. So much, in fact, that the Russian women were expected to more than make up the men's deficit and give the Soviets victory. The Russians consider it one big meet. The Americans claim it is two.

But even figuring it the Russians' way, Coaches George Eastman (men) and Ed Temple (women) were hopeful with 17 events on today's schedule.

Decathlon Is Vital
It could be that victory hinges on the decathlon, the final event of which winds up the meet. Rafter Johnson, lithe Los Angeles athlete, went into the last five events holding 4,524,420 lead over his chief Russian opponent, Vassily Kuznetsov.

Johnson won three of Sunday's five events — the 100, shot put and 400 meters. Kuznetsov captured the broad jump and tied with Dave Edstrom of Sherwood, Ore., for first in the high jump.

While feeling very good, Eastman, coach at Manhattan College, admitted: "If my team led by 100 points with only one event to go, I would still be nervous."

The biggest surprises were the showings of the American women, who trail in points, 30-22, six or eight points better than expected. The U.S. girls won the 100 meters and 400-meter relay event and had a second place in the discus.

Barbara Jones of Tennessee State took the 100-meters in :11.6 while the U.S. team of Isabel Daniels, Lucinda Williams, Margaret Matthews, and Barbara Jones, all of Tennessee State, took the 400-meter relay in :45.4.

Lose Pole Vault

There were disappointments too. The pole vault, long considered an American specialty, went to Vladimir Bulatov of Russia, who vaulted 14 feet, 9.17 inches, while Burbank, Calif.'s Ron Morris was second with 14-5.23.

Parry O'Brien, who won the shot put with a heave of 62 feet, 9.56 inches said he felt an especially big urge to do his best.

Besides nationalism, O'Brien said he exploded the shot with "nervous energy."

U.S. Ambassador Llewellyn Thomson was among the nearly 105,000 spectators that jammed Lenin Stadium.

Ira Murchison, Chicago, won the 100 meters in :10.2; Glenn Davis, Columbus, Ohio, took the 400 meters in :45.6; Ansel Robinson, Fresno, Calif., captured the 110-meter high hurdles in :13.9; Murchison, Davis, Jim Segrist, Abilene, Tex., and Ed Collymore, Cambridge, Mass., won the 400-meter relay.

York Feasting On Southpaws

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

York's victory streak against left-handed pitchers and Bing Hamton's persistent slump were the talk of the Eastern League today.

York continued to bedevil enemy southpaws Sunday in sweeping two games from Albany, 4-0 and 5-3. The victories were the White Roses' fourth and fifth straight against left-handers.

Willie Moton pitched a six-hitter. Willie Garcia allowed five hits to pick up the win in the nightcap.

Meantime, Binghamton — the class of the Northern Division in first half of the season-continued its second half slide, losing 6-1 to Allentown.

event and had a second place in the discus.

Maple Leaf Cup Won By Detroit Boat Club

PORT DALHOUSIE, Ont. (AP) — The Detroit Boat Club, after 67 years of trying, has the Maple Leaf Trophy today — emblematic of the championship of the Royal Canadian Henley Regatta.

The Detroit entry rolled up 379.75 points while St. Catharines of Canada nosed out Buffalo West Side by one-half point, with 149.

Both had taken turns at the title over the last nine years.

Haney's 'Walking Wounded' Mushrooming Over '57 Total

By CHUCK CAPALDO

Associated Press Sports Writer
MILWAUKEE (AP) — If the Milwaukee Braves win the National League pennant again this year, they'll do so with a bigger cast of walking wounded than played roles in the 1957 championship.

Toward the close of last season, Braves Manager Fred Haney observed that in all his years in baseball he'd never experienced such a run of injuries. He spoke too soon, a season too soon.

This year his regulars have played together in only five of the club's 93 games to date. He fielded his regulars for the first 17 games of the '57 campaign before he was forced to go to his bench for help.

The regulars include either Frank Torre or Joe Adcock at first; Del Crandall or Del Rice behind the plate; Wes Covington, Billy Bruton and Hank Aaron in the outfield; Red Schoendienst at second; Eddie Mathews at third; and Johnny Logan at short.

Three Remain Intact
Of the 93 games played to date, only Aaron with 92, Logan with 91 and Mathews with 89 have appeared with any degree of regularity.

Among those not expected to share their positions, Schoendienst has appeared in only 54 games, Bruton in 51 and Covington in 52.

Andy Pafko, 37-year-old spare outfielder, has been in 55 games — more than any of the three.

While the Braves play the International League All-Stars in Toronto today, three of Haney's ambulatory cases will visit Dr. Bruce Brewer here for checkups.

They include Pafko, with the left side of his face puffed up from being hit by a thrown ball Thursday night, and Covington and Bruton for old knee injuries.

So far this season key players who have missed 10 or more games because of injuries include Covington, Bruton, Schoendienst, Bob Buhl and Torre.

"I've never seen anything like it," said Haney.

But Mrs. Dennehey probably will find it difficult not to name Barbara McIntire of Jupiter, Fla., and Ann Quast of Everett, Wash.

Miss McIntire gave a splendid demonstration of pressure shooting in defeating Miss Quast 2 and 1 in 35 holes to take the Women's Western Amateur crown Saturday.

Miss Quast, the medalist, was a relentless opponent, keeping the match alive with remarkable putting. She one-putted nine greens in the final 17 holes and wound up with a total of 41 for 113 holes played in the meet.

Others making up the U.S. team are Polly Riley, Fort Worth; Barbara Romack, Sacramento, Calif.; Meriam Bailey, Evanston

WANT-AD WONDERS

Want Ad Offers Poodle For $1000

Seth Glem of Memphis brought a tiny poodle home from France, and declared
"wouldn't sell her for $1,000" but later decided he should. His wife ran this ad:

"Pure luxury gift, expensive but elegant. Toy white French poodle, tiny female, 4 months old. $1,000. N.Y.C."

Glems got an offer of $500, and began to fear that someone would pay $1,000
but no one did. The whole city got interested, and dozens of people called Glems to see if they'd made the sale.

Father Drowns While Instructing Son, 8

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. (AP) — Charles Chester Walker, 34, of St. Joseph, was teaching his son, Stephen, to swim at nearby Sugar Lake Sunday, when suddenly he pushed Stephen toward shore. Stephen, 8, told officers he and his father were only about 10 feet from the bank when Walker shoved him and then disappeared beneath the water. About an hour later, divers brought up Walker's body. They found it seven feet down, entangled in moss.

Fog Forces Blimp To Delay Trip

SOUTH WEYMOUTH, Mass. (AP)—Heavy fog and low ceiling caused an Arctic bound Navy blimp to head for the naval air station at Lakehurst, N. J. today.

The blimp then was to refuel and depart for Churchill, Canada, the first leg of its 4,600 mile flight, as soon as the weather improves.

The Navy blimp, ZPG-2, had left South Weymouth in a heavy fog at 10:32 last night. It was unable to climb to the 2,000 feet altitude assigned by the CAA, because of warm air over Long Island sound.

Capt. Harold Van Gorder, a resident of Canandaigua, N.Y., who is in charge of the expedition for the Naval Air Development unit, said Lakehurst was chosen because it had better visibility than Weymouth which is still shrouded in fog.

The weather was bad as far as Poughkeepsie, N. Y., but was good from there north.

The blimp hung over Long Island sound for several hours hoping the fog would lift, when it didn't the decision to go to Lakehurst was made.

Takeoff of the 343-foot blimp was delayed last night for 90 minutes by heavy fog.

Its destination is the ice island, known as "T-3," this country's floating weather station in the Arctic Ocean.

The flight is expected to take 12 days by way of Churchill, Manitoba, and resolute on Cornwallis Island, northwest territory.

On board are a crew of 14 and scientists of the International Geophysical Year.

Lighthouse Leans, Struck by Steamer

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP)—Buffalo Harbor's three-story lighthouse has a new, crazy look today.

The light's out of whack and the brick and cement structure is tilted against the breakwater at a rakish angle.

It's been that way since a Great Lakes ore boat came swinging out of the harbor Saturday night and clipped the lighthouse neatly on the verandah.

For Coast Guardsman George Harrington, who was tending the light at the time, it was a narrow squeak.

Misses Crash

The sailor from Elmira was taking his ease, gazing out the window, when he saw the 8,000-ton vessel heading his way.

He watched with considerable interest as the 590-foot steamer got bigger and bigger, wondering when it would turn.

When he suddenly realized it wouldn't be shot down three flights of stairs and out just ahead of the crash.

The impact put a nasty dent in the bow of the boat, the Frontenac, owned by the Cleveland Cliffs Iron Co., Cleveland, Ohio.

No one was injured.

Error in Judgment

Cmdr. Willis A. Bruso, a Coast Guard inspector, said yesterday, "There was no mechanical failure of any kind. I think it was an error in judgment."

The Frontenac, which had delivered a load of iron ore here, limped off to Ashtabula, Ohio, yesterday for repairs and a hearing on the crash.

The investigation is in the hands of the marine inspection office in Cleveland, the Coast Guard reported.

A replacement light is expected soon.

Seneca Indian Chief to Meet on Kinzua Dam Job

SALAMANCA, N. Y. (AP)—The chief of the Seneca Indian nation plans to be in Washington Tuesday to meet with Army Engineers on the proposed Kinzua Dam project.

Chief Cornelius V. Seneca was called for a conference by Maj. Gen. Emerson C. Itchner, head of the Army Engineers.

The chief, whose people are fighting the dam proposal on the grounds it would flood their reservation, will be accompanied by his legal and technical advisers, a spokesman for the Senecas disclosed Sunday.

To Control River

The proposed dam at Kinzua, Pa., 10 miles south of the state line, is planned to control the Allegheny River.

Congress recently granted $1,000,000 for preliminary work on the $111,000,000 project, but provided that the money would not be spent until the legal dispute is settled.

The question of whether the government may seize land for the project against the Indians' wishes is in a District of Columbia Circuit Court of Appeals.

Last month, the Federal District Court in Buffalo ruled that the government may at least continue surveying the 21,250 acres involved until next June 30.

Cab Driver Returns Purse With $2,300

WASHINGTON (AP) — Taxi driver Melvin James let a woman passenger off at a downtown bank and drove off.

Some six blocks away he saw a large purse on the back seat, and hurried back to the bank. The woman wasn't there.

He looked into the purse. It contained $2,300 in cash.

James searched the nearby area and found the woman, standing bewildered in the middle of the sidewalk.

"She said the $2,300 belonged to her recreational club's funds," said James. "The loss had hit her hard. She didn't even know what kind of a cab she had been in."

Any reward?

"No. She was so flustered I guess she forgot."
